Castle Grove

THE COTSWOLDS & COUNTRY

7 Bedrooms, 5 Bathrooms
For 16 guests

There's a cinematic charm to Castle Grove, a seven-bedroom manor house where heritage and modernity meet in harmony.

Beside the moated walls of Broughton Castle, a country house with a private, poetic feel.

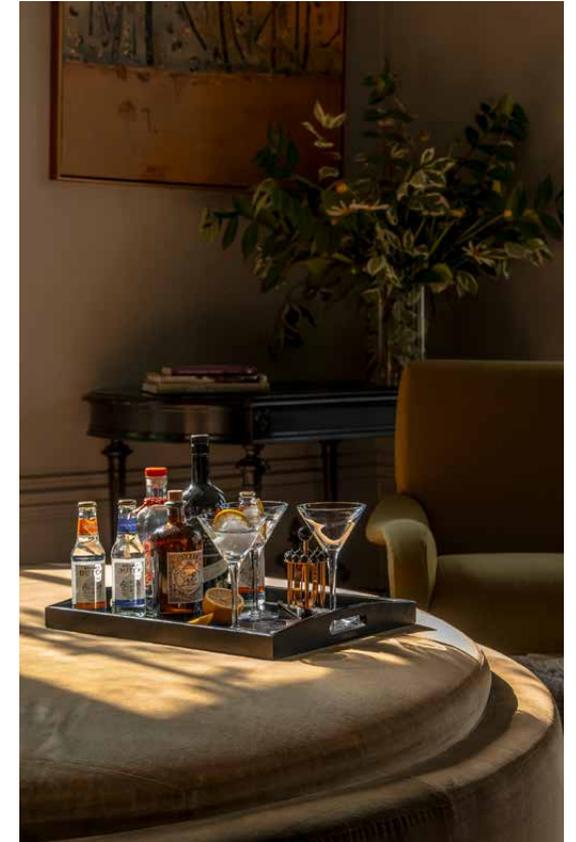

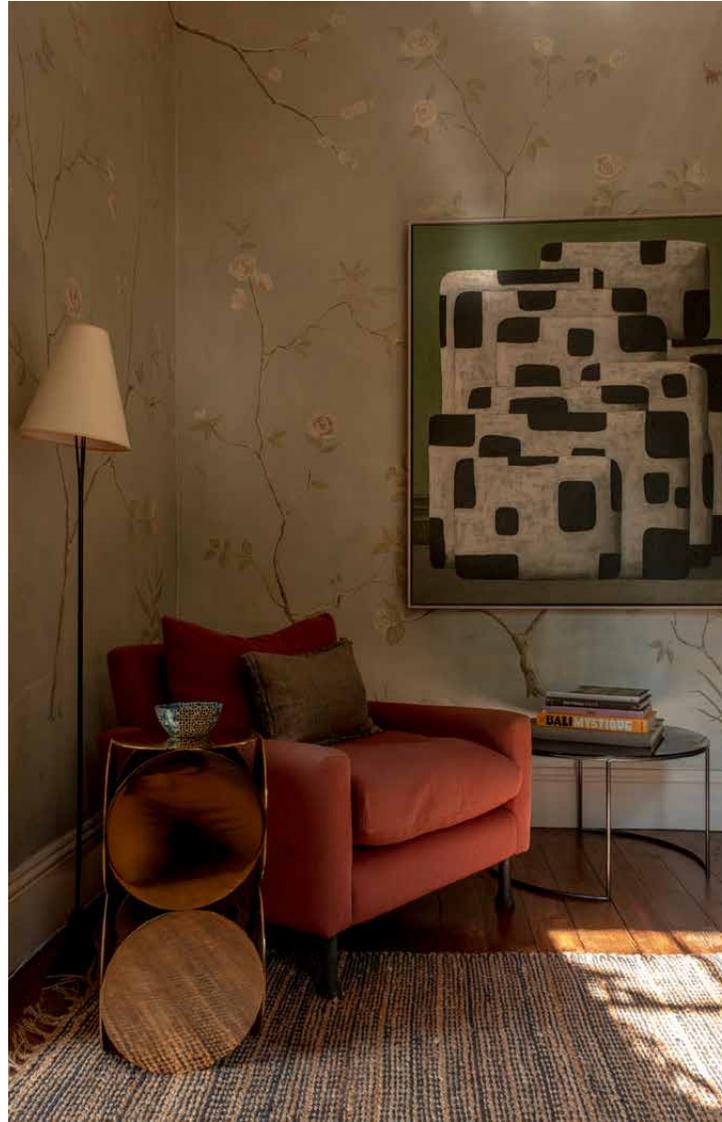

Exuding classic English elegance, a honey-hued stone façade, stately portico and symmetrical sash windows set the scene here. Outside, a graceful, curved rotunda overlooks manicured lawns, mature trees and a tranquil lake. Inside, thoughtful spaces invite connection and relaxation – from grand entertaining rooms to restful bedroom suites and considered wellness features.

The living spaces

A wide entrance hallway features ornate ceiling cornicing and pale walls, setting a refined tone for the bold wall art and sculptural pendant lighting. A filmic atmosphere is conjured in the formal reception room, with its curved aspect and trio of arched sash windows; curl up on the circular velvet sofa and gaze out towards the verdant gardens.

An additional drawing room has textural intrigue with floor-to-ceiling wood panelling and a stone fireplace, grounded with navy-blue walls and comfortable furniture. There's another relaxed lounge area with wall-to-wall bookshelves filled with page-turners. For peaceful home working, there's a sun-filled study wrapped in a floral motif.

Kitchen & dining

Finished with pale woods and a light blue colour scheme, the kitchen is at once uplifting and serene. Set beneath a thick timber beam, a deep blue Aga oven and Delft tiles offer classic countryside charm, while a central island provides plenty of preparation space. Down a few steps, there's an easygoing breakfast area featuring a dining table, bench seating and reams of natural light – courtesy of large French windows.

Things take a moodier turn in the formal dining room, with its dark walls, log fireplace and sash windows with panelled shutters. A glossy red table is complemented with ten velvet chairs, perfect for dinner parties with loved ones.

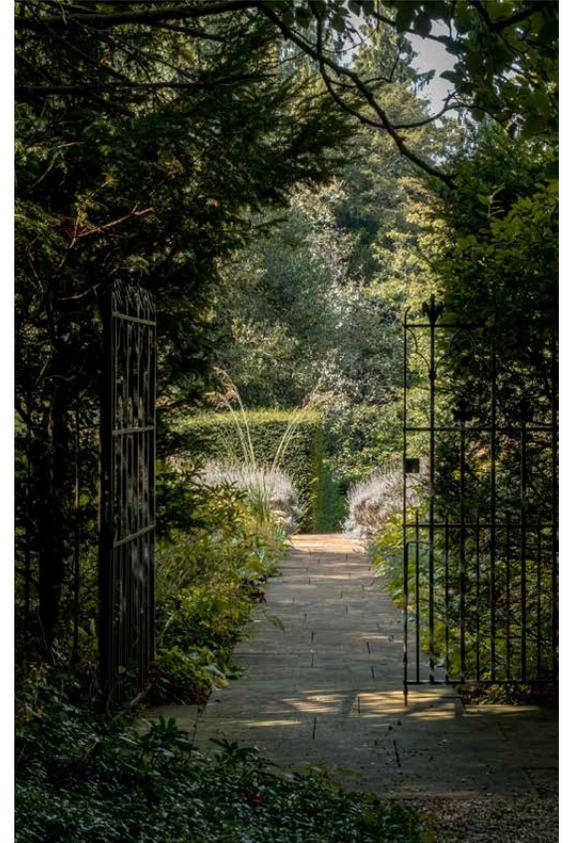

Outdoor spaces

Beyond the house, Castle Grove's grounds are a masterclass in pastoral beauty. Expansive lawns sweep down towards a tranquil lake, its glassy surface reflecting the honeyed stone of the house and the surrounding mature trees. The landscaped gardens are thoughtfully designed, from clipped topiary and climbing greenery to shaded pathways that invite quiet strolls.

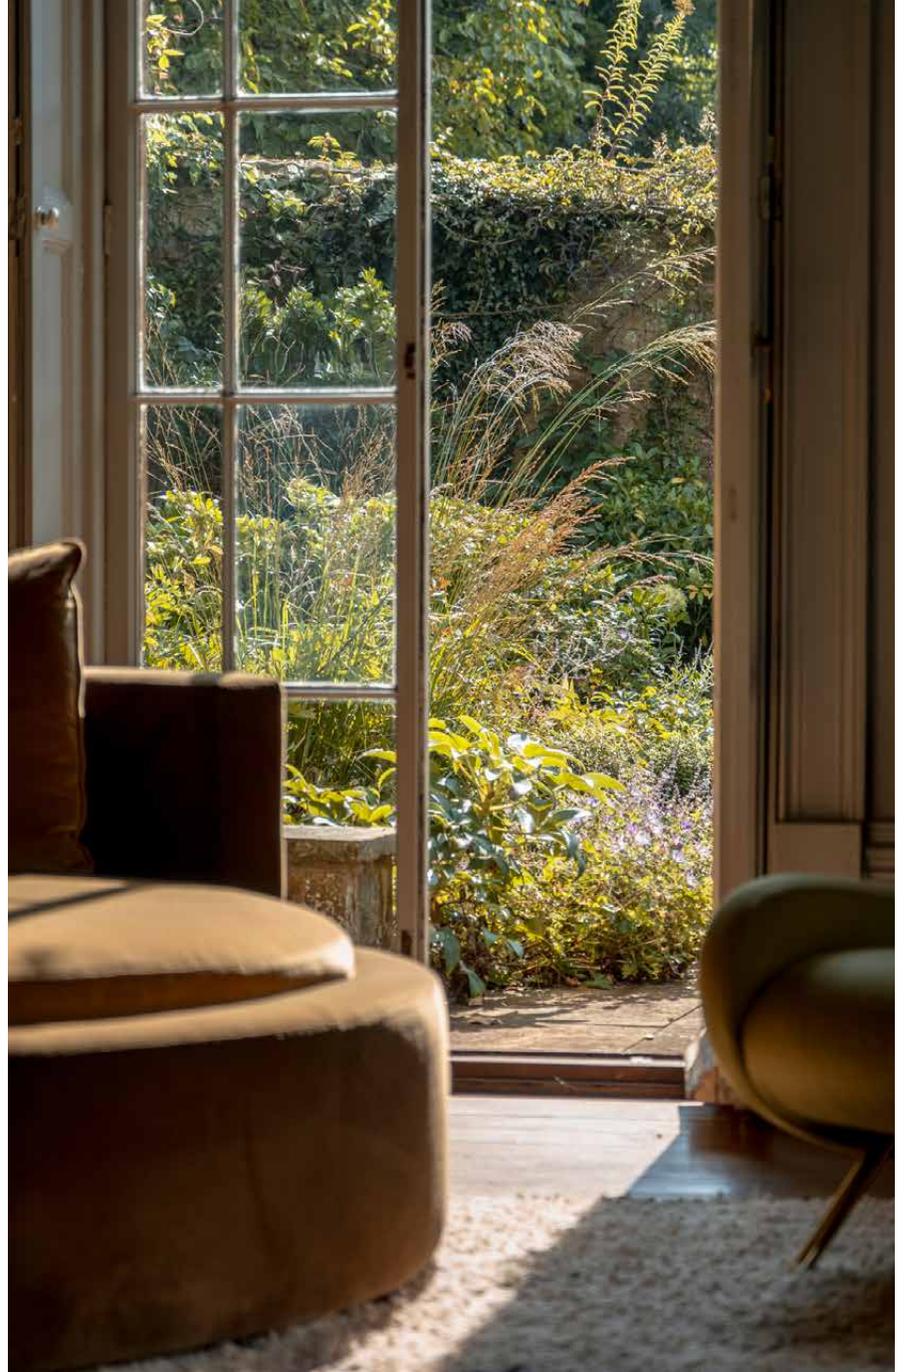

A heated outdoor pool, bordered by manicured hedges and immaculate paving, invites long days spent lounging and swimming. The rustic-chic pool house – with exposed brickwork, timber beams and a fully equipped gym – blends countryside character with modern wellness. Tucked into a leafy copse, a children's climbing playground adds a touch of adventure, while a kitchen garden offers fresh herbs and seasonal produce for family meals.

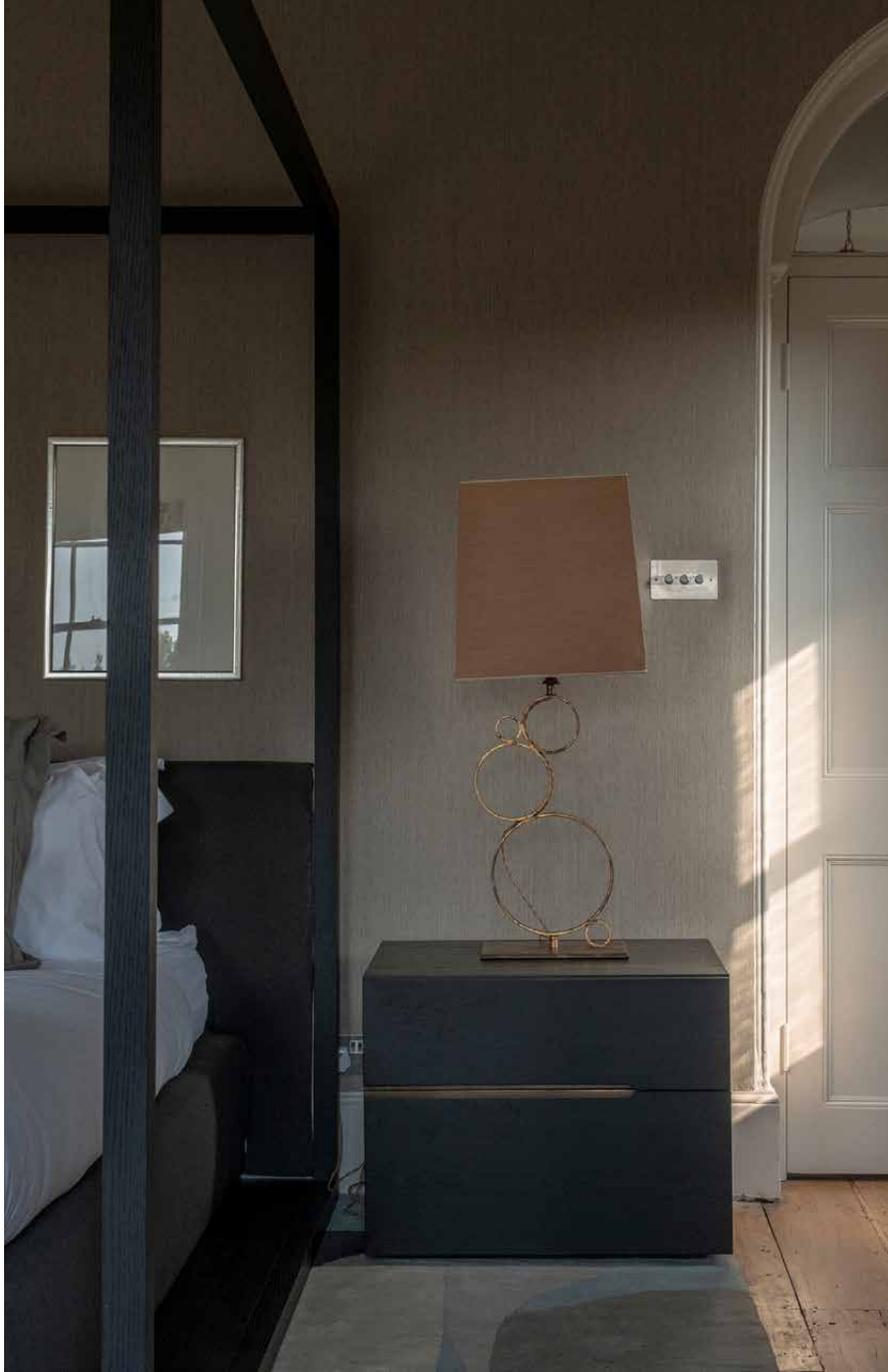

For larger gatherings, the self-contained Stable Cottage provides additional accommodation and can be rented separately for a supplemental fee.

Bedrooms & bathrooms

Upstairs, tranquillity reigns. Three principal bedrooms occupy the first floor, each finished with soft pastel palettes, richly textured fabrics and leafy outlooks. Generous proportions and thoughtful detailing create a sense of calm indulgence. Spa-like en suites enjoy freestanding bathtubs, marble tiling and walk-in rainfall showers. On the top floor, a double bedroom and two charming bunk rooms offer a playful yet peaceful retreat for children or guests, while a twin bedroom completes the home's seven-bedroom offering.

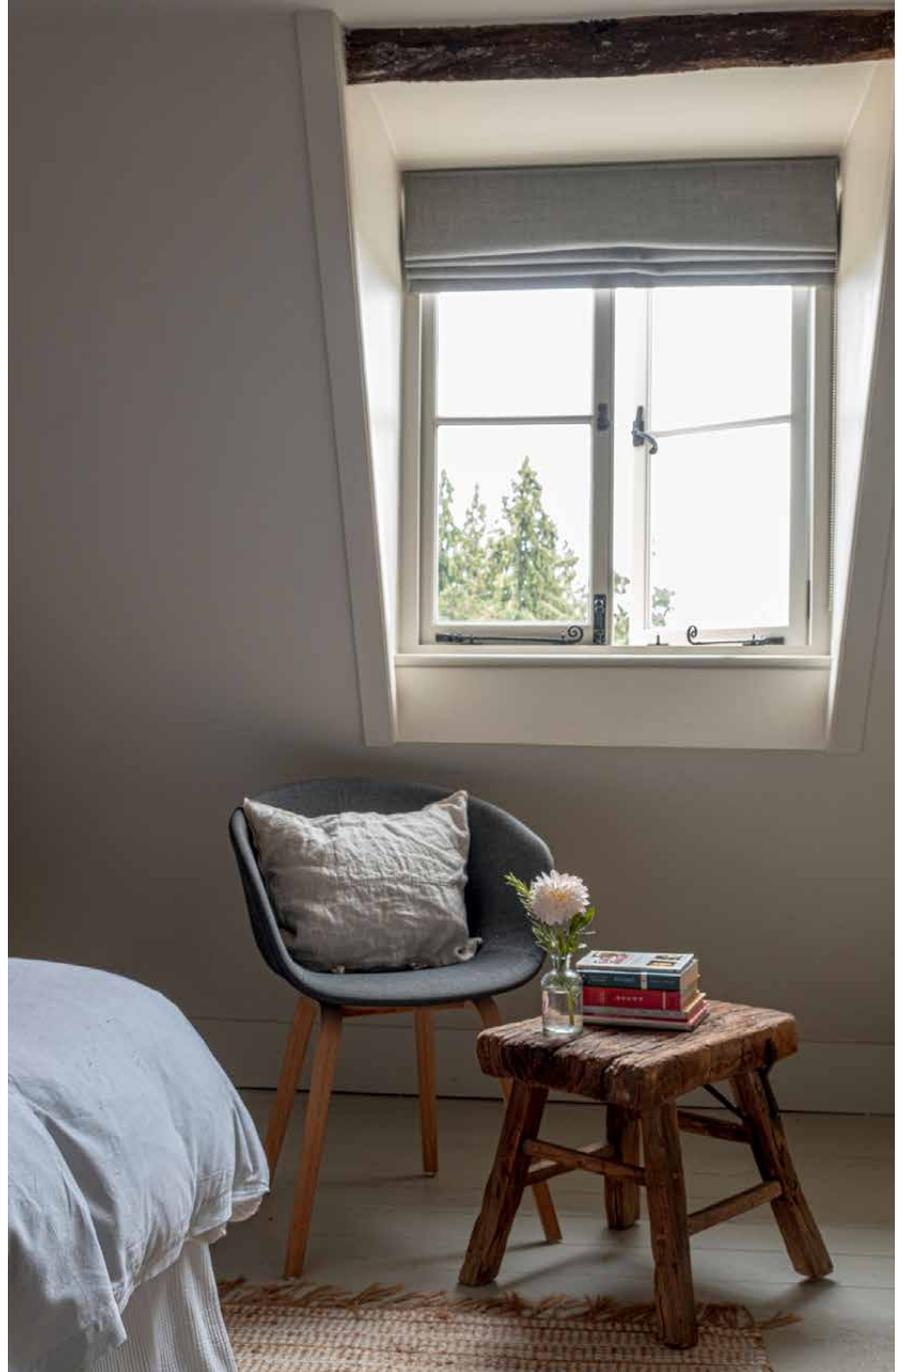

The surroundings

The village of Broughton sees honey-hued stone cottages line peaceful lanes and centuries of history intertwined with a strong sense of community. The Grade I listed Broughton Castle was first built in 1306, with its undulating moat surrounding the inimitable Hornton ironstone architecture. The formal gardens are perfect for meditative walks, backdropped by a wide variety of flowers and vegetation.

A short drive brings you to Blenheim Palace, with its grand state rooms and sweeping parklands, while the charming town of Woodstock provides boutique shopping and artisanal cafés. For designer retail, Bicester Village is one of the area's coveted fashion destinations. Both under 20 minutes' drive, Daylesford and Soho Farmhouse promise organic plates and cosmopolitan wellness offerings. If you're taking a road trip through the rolling Cotswold hills, be sure to stop off at The Wild Rabbit in Kingham, Henne in Morton-in-Marsh or MO in Broadway for some of the area's best fine dining.
