Dunraven Street

MAYFAIR W1K

2 Bedrooms, 2 Bathrooms
For 4 guests

Conversations of light and texture play out across this exclusive London penthouse apartment to rent.

The accolades of this Grade II listed building include its former use as the home of humourist P.G. Wodehouse, and its expert renovation by Alexander McQueen – not to mention its spacious interiors and contemporary style. Cast your eyes upwards to the third and fourth floors of this lofty red-brick property, where a monochromatic masterpiece awaits.

The living spaces

Take the lift upstairs, and enter a spacious kitchen and dining room – the epitome of sophisticated homeliness. Sweeping surfaces make preparing food a breeze, while a stainless-steel oven and splashback adds an edge of industrialism to the space. Sip a coffee at the large island, or seat friends around the glass dining table. When the weather warms, enjoy air conditioning throughout the home, or fling open the French windows to the balcony – the quiet thrum of Dunraven Street sits just below.

The living room is a dialogue of parallels between light and dark, hard and soft. Light from the trio of sash windows plays with the ornate chandelier, while a mirrored wall amplifies the sense of space, with a soothing open fireplace for when nights draw in. Stone-coloured sofas invite cosy evenings in front of your favourite film, set on smart black walnut flooring.

Bedrooms & bathrooms

There's an understated elegance to the sleeping quarters. The master bedroom is beautifully lit through a lunette window and leads to an immaculate en-suite bathroom – its floors and walls are wrapped in glossy marble, setting the stage for the inviting free-standing bathtub. The guest bedroom is a serene affair, with sliding pocket doors doubling the space into a dedicated dressing area or home gym. Choose between the walk-in shower or fitted bath in the family bathroom.

Outdoor space

From the fourth floor, ascend the sprawling spiral staircase to the roof terrace; fire up the barbecue and enjoy summertime drinks on this south-facing suntrap.

The neighbourhood

Peaceful Dunraven Street sits just around the corner from the sophisticated streets of Mayfair or the vibrant bustle of Bond Street.

In fact, this home could not be better located to experience central London to its fullest. Head to the Grade II listed Royal Arcade for your shopping fix or visit the Royal Academy or National Gallery for a world-class exhibition. A wealth of Michelin starred restaurants sit right on your doorstep: for Michelin-starred dining, Tom Seller's Dovetale offers reimagined European classics, or head a little further to the highly-Instagrammable Sketch – set in an 18th-century townhouse, its is fuelled by artistic innovation in every corner. The iconic Hyde Park is a five-minute walk away, for a breath of fresh air amidst the bustle of the capital. You're spoilt for choice when it comes to tube stations and transport links – explore the rest of London with ease.
